

Get a plate. Support a classroom.

Put money back into your local school district.

Purchasing an Education or “Hoosier Family of Readers” license plate in Indiana supports your schools. Nearly $19 of the specialty plate’s administration fee is sent to your selected school’s education foundation. In turn, the foundation uses those funds for teacher grants and innovative programs that enhance learning for all students in the district.

Since the plate’s introduction in 1997, public schools throughout Indiana have received more than $5.8 million to support classroom activities and learning.

When you purchase an Education specialty license plate and designate your district, funds are directed to the district’s education foundation by the county auditor.

Public education foundations in many school districts around Indiana exist to bridge the gap between what public funds support and what school districts and teachers need to bring the curriculum to life. Private funds have been raised to pay for such items as:

- Grants that provide learning resources to classrooms
- Tutoring centers at local high schools
- K-12 science resource centers
- Literary initiatives for all grade levels
- Extracurricular activities
- Intercultural learning programs
